“to check IN on someone” OR “to check on someone”? Oct 3, 2020 · to make sure someone is doing okay, be it in their work, health, or otherwise I think check up on is the best as this can carry the sense of finding out about their welfare. What does it mean when someone says "noted" to you? Apr 15, 2015 · Actually this is not a bad question. When you make a statement and the reply comes back "Noted," you can assume that you have been over-sharing, discussing topics the other person finds objectionable or uncomfortable, or violating some other social taboo. It is a one-word way of saying, "I don't wish to discuss this and I wish you would stop talking about ... prepositions - “provide X to someone” vs “provide X for someone ... Mar 28, 2019 · In other words, these are questions of coherent and natural-sounding phrasing, rather than strictly grammar, I believe. "Provide for the common good" is an example of "provide" without an A and a B, by the way. You can "provide for" something, or "provision" something, or "provide" something to someone. phrasal verbs - 'visit someone' vs. 'visit with someone' - English ... Nov 28, 2024 · I am wondering what difference between 'visit someone' and 'visit with someone' there is. In Oxford Learner's Dictionaries Visit with (North American English) to spend time with somebody, especially prepositions - To be on, at or by someone's side - English ... May 16, 2016 · I think the preposition you want to use is on. To be at or by someone's side usually means a close, physical presence. It conjures up images like this one, where three friends are walking side-by-side: To be on someone's side, though, usually means to be siding with them in an argument or dispute, or maybe supporting them in a tough situation. Usage of + or ++ in emails - English Language & Usage Stack ... Nov 18, 2019 · I would agree with instinct71. It's used as follows: - say an email is sent to a list of recipients, but someone was omitted or the topic needs to include other recipient (s). The new recipient (s) are added to the To: or CC: fields and their names are also added to the body of the email with a ++ or + , just to inform everyone on the current distribution that others have been ... What's it called when someone imposes his own beliefs and ... Dec 12, 2016 · When someone forces his own ideology, beliefs and thoughts on someone else and not allow them to think for themselves? For example: when a head chairman state his opinion about a political candidate and makes everyone else in the department approve of him and refuse anyone else to belief anything but what they said. difference between "engage with someone" and "engage ... Engage with somebody means, as others have said, to interact with that person, usually from a position of greater power (managers are frequently exhorted to engage with employees, but rarely the other way round). Engage somebody has many possible meanings, depending on context: the army engage the enemy, you may engage somebody in conversation by simply going up and ... What is the word for someone that uses other people? Apr 20, 2015 · What is the word that describes a person who uses other people, generally for personal gain, without anything given in return? Maybe through blatancy or through manipulation. I was using extortioni... "I and someone", "me and someone" or "I and someone we" 40 "I and someone are interested" is grammatically correct. It is the convention in English that when you list several people including yourself, you put yourself last, so you really should say "Someone and I are interested." "Someone and I" is the subject of the sentence, so you should use the subjective case "I" rather than the objective "me".
