ATLANTIC NUX delay & reverb - The Steel Guitar Forum Oct 14, 1999 · Instant reverb on your initial note loses the attack or punch to a note or chord. What I hear in my settings is the delay (350ms) with three repeats (last repeat barely noticeable and each one half the volume of my initial note or chord. Then a reverb tail. I acquired this delay setting while watching Emmons set his Echoplex many years ago. Reverb Dwell vs Tone - The Steel Guitar Forum Jun 29, 2015 · In strictly technical terms, the reverb dwell control typically regulates the amount of signal going into the unit. You then used the blend control to set the ratio of reverb to clean signal. Apr 29, 2021 · -on the reverb issues: You might check and make sure the connections are cleaned. Check and make sure the reverb springs are clean. Some of the older tanks had some foam weather stripping above the springs to help dampen external vibrations. Often the foam rubber would rot and fall into the springs Best bet then is a new reverb tank. Accutronics reverb tank repairs - The Steel Guitar Forum Jan 11, 1999 · Reverb tank repair by Larry Hobson » 10 Nov 2021 6:29 pm Randy, Speaking just from me, other than checking for loose connection, forget repairs. Replace the unit. The small wire in the transformer, if broken, seems to be impossible to resolder. When I attempted to resolder a broken connection, wire is so thin it burns up before accepting solder. Reverb and Delay effects - The Steel Guitar Forum Apr 8, 2011 · Over the years I initially used the analog spring reverb as provided in Peavey and Evans amplifiers, then later added the Boss DD3 digital delay pedal, much later I went with a Profex2 for reverb & delay and currently use the Lexicon MPX1 for both effects. 1970 Fender Twin Reverb value - The Steel Guitar Forum Aug 18, 2010 · Considering selling my 1970 Fender Twin silverface. Been stored in house and not played much for 25 years. Just had maintenance on it last year. All power supply caps replaced. Tubes tested and one weak one replaced. Works and sounds great. Best battery powered reverb? - The Steel Guitar Forum Oct 11, 2012 · Almost all modern reverb pedals are using chips that use so much current that they can't run on 9v batteries. I use a Caroline Meteore that works for a while on a battery, but it's distinctly and deliberately lo-fi, which may be awesome if you're me, but may be terrible if you're one of the players looking for a smooth, glossy, modern sound.
